In an ordinary way, gentlemen who use the word "falsehood" in the course of a controversy, are considered to have adopted an argument which does not call for reply; and we should much prefer to treat the Hon. Mr. PAUNCEFOTE according to this principle, were not the matter too important to be passed he then seized him by the quene, and threw him over in silence. But those returns, unfortunately, show conclusively that brought to justice, have escaped. An examination of the records of the Supreme Court, it appears, shows that during the two years immediately preceding January 1867, no less than 92 persons were tried for piracy, attended in most instances with murder of violence; whereas, during the two years immediately following, only fifteen men were tried for that crime, and not one single trial for piracy took place for two years. This is sufficient to prove very clearly that crime has more and more escaped being brought to justice, as no one will believe that so sudden a reformation as this has taken place among especially, as we actually know of many pira- of Sunoz, with stealing some copper, found on troduced. EMORANDUM OF THE ATTORNEY GENERAL UPON THE LETTER OF THE CHIEF-JUSTICE, OF THE -29TH NOVEMBER, 1870.

The letter of Chief-Justice. Smale has al ready been published in the Gazette. 1.—This letter, which has been forwarded for my perusal by H.E. the Lieut.-Governor, suggests the following remarks upon the ried by acclamation. With a vote of thanks to continual attacks which the Chief-Justice makes upon the policy of the Government in relation to the licences of the gaming houses, not only in such official communications as A Meeting of the Community was held on the one under consideration, but in the way of public consure from the judicial bench.

2.-With all deference to the opinions which the Chief-Justice is perfectly entitled to hold upon the vexed question, I cannot tish Government. One of these indecements Mesers. P. T. Hughes, H. M.'s Consul, in the admit the accuracy of the facts which he system; namely, the increase of crime, and contrary, I maintain that, since the establishment of the licensed gaming houses, there has been a vast decrease of crime, and that no instance of corruption in the police force has come to my knowledge which can have any sort of connection with gaming houses. S .- Sir Richard MacDonnell, at one of the last meetings of the Legislative Council over upon the table the elaborate police return on crime, published in the Gazette of the 16th arrest of criminals, and in the detection of an instance, I bog to enclose a report of some of the remarks which he made in Court when passing sentence upon the Japanese "Soterloo," who is the subject of his present letter :-- (From the China Mail, of Nov. 23rd, 1870.) " How strange it must appear? his Lordslip said, ' to the people of Japan, a country where gambling is prohibited and suppressed, to know that it is licensed in this, a British Colony. It was greatly to be regretted that the keepers of these Elysiums had not refused admittance to this man on account of his having so much of the appearance of a European. Gambling is put down and kept down in Japan. By the Chinese authorities, in every province where there is an honest Governor, it is put down. In Singapore it is put down. In England it is put down, and regretted were not proclaimed as law within this Colony. Means to repress gambling in this Colony had been untried, though not

He simply gambled with his plunder like other thieves. 12.—The Chief-Justice would seem to be under a misapprehension as to this man having been a "confidential servant," and ter," and "having always had a good chaturbed his reason." .. 18. It appears from the depositions of his master. Ocso-Bala, before the magistrate, that Soterloo had been his servant for about eight months. To prevent any mistake, l By teaching our people the seven leagued requested the Registrar-General to be good enough to send for Oosa-Bala, and examine him on the point. I am informed by the Registrar-General and by the Crown Solicitor that in answer to the inquiry made on this. subject, Oosa-Bala positively asserts that the Japanese interpreter must have been mistaken; that he had engaged Scterloo only about two or three months ago before leaving Japan for Hongkong, because the man spoke a little English; that he was previously a total stranger to him, and a person of very low class. 14.—As for Soterloo's reason being "disturbed by remorse," I requested Dr. Murray. the Colonial-Surgeon, to be kind enough to nion as to his mental condition, and the following is his report :- "As you requested, I examined the Japanese prisoner, Soterloo. He does not appear to me any more weak minded than he was; and he is employ in telligent as most Japanese, and quite as much so as on his first reception. Nor does he appear to be suffering from any mental anxiety or remorse, for he stoutly denies the theft, maintaining that he burrowed the money on his own behalf from Messrs.

Russell & Co., and therefore did not steal it from his master. 15 .- It will seem, therefore, that this case of the Japanese, which the Chief-Justice brings forward so prominently, is not such a "painful" one as would appear from his narrative, while it illustrates the accuracy with which the police are able to trace the movements of thieves in the various gaming 16 .- No one can doubt that, having regard to the proximity of the mainland, and to the turbulent character of the natives of the south of China, the Hongkong Government is charged with the repression of crime, and with the protection of life and property under extremely difficult conditions. There is not a member of the Government. I am sure, who would not rejoice if the objects intended to be effected by the licensing of gaming within its present limits could have been obtained by some less unpleasant means. The system has certainly in a great measure effected its purpose, and it was owing to the great decrease of crime, and to the improved morals and strength of the police force, that H.E. the Lient.-Governor. with the advice of the Executive Council recently proposed, subject to the approval of Her Majesty's Government, to close the gaming houses, and make an effort to get on without them: Yet the Chief-Justice insists that crime is on the increase, and that the police were never so "untrustworthy." 17.—These statements of the Chief-Justica are, however, in conflict with the public returns of crime in the Colony : and as for the accusations of "untrustworthiness," which he so frequently brings against the police force. I can only say that they are unsupported by any evidence whatever, and that so far as I am able to judge, they are quite unmerited 18.-I take the opportunity of returning herewith the Chief-Justice's letter, of the 3th of August last, and the draft Ordinance reasons.—

JAPANESE IN NEW YORK. The New York Times gives the following high-flown account of the arrival of some Japanese students in that city:-Thirty young Japanese noblemen belonging to the most illustrious families in Japan, and under the leadership of Prince Schemidzo Jugad, have arrived in New York from San Francisco, and occupied quarters at the St. Nicholas Hotel. The young gentlemen are sent to this country by the Government of Japan in order to complete their education, and especially with a view of examining mechanical inventions. As date. a general thing, these young Japanese possess very intelligent faces, and gazed round them with an air of balf alarm, half astonishment, that was quite amusing. Prince Schemidze. Jugad further stated the young noblemen are to be instructed with the object of fitting them to occupy important positions in the Foreignoffice of Japan, which has recently become a very important department of the Japanese State. Upon his arrival, the Prince, followed by his charges, stepped up to the hotel register and wrote, in fair legible characters, "Prince Schemidzo Jugad, Japan, with twenty-nine companions." Soon afterwards the Japanese were shown to their respective rooms, as much as to escape the insolent curiosity of the crowd which had gathered in the botel vestibule, as to refresh themselves after their long jaunt across the continent. The distinguished visitors will remain but a few days in the city, in order to view the objects of interest, when they will be scutin detachments of four or five to the different colleges throughout the country.

An Anglo-Chinese Dictionary, published at the Daily Press Office, Hongkong.

MOR scope and practical service this Work stands unrivalled. All the new word which the Chinese have of late years been com pelled to coin to express the numerous objects in machinery, photography, talegraphy, and in science generally, which the rapid advance of foreign relations has imposed upon them, are here given in extenso. Each and every word is fully illustrated and explained, forming exercises for students of a most instructive nature. Both the Court and Punti pronuouations are given, the accents being carefully marked on the best principle hitherto attained. The typogra by displays the success of an attempt to mak, the Chinese and English type correspond n the give of body, thereby effecting a vast oconomy of space, achieving a clearness not previously attained, and dispensing with those vast margins and vacant spaces which have illustrated from Siamese Sources, by HENRY heretofore characterized Chinese publications. The scope of the work is so great, and its utilitarian purposes so complete, that a reforence to its pages enables a person who understands English to communicate effectively with natives who understand nothing but Chi- Office, and of the following Agents:nose. In this respect the work will be found TRUBNER & Co., London, may be had at the indispensable to all Europeans residing in Chins, and to the natives themselves it ex-

Trial and Condemnation of a Monk for Marder. There has taken place in Rome an event, the naturak and legal sequence of the overthrow of the Pope's temporal dominion, and of that ... common civil statue by which all Italians, with the single exception of the Pope himself, have become amenable to the laws of the kingdom, 1m 1697 Hongkong, 27th September, 1871. and must be tried by a jury of their countrymen when charged with the commission of a crime. But though only a natural and legal consequence, it was not the less of the highest interest and importance, for it was the first trial of a monk before an ordinary criminal court. 1m 1585 Hongkong, 18th September, 1871. The trial was that of the Franciscan monk Luigi Santini, of the Convent of Civitella, in Subiaco, who on the 22nd of last September stabled thrice in the breast the lay brother THE Ground-floor of our PREMISES facing Vincenzo Nicontini, so that the latter died of his wounds on the following day. This Luigi Santini, before becoming a monk, had been a mason, and when exercising that trade had already undergone three criminal trials-one for defamation, another for threatening language, the third for wounding, He entered the Franciscan Monastery in 18 8, and in a very short time he was appointed treasurer of the establishment. From time to time, however, his flerce sanguinary character revealed itself. and the other monks were very careful of giving him offence. Between the unfortunate lay brother, Vincenzo Niccolini, and Santipi, a slight alterention arose, when the former was carrying the Hon. J. PAUNCEFOTE. a handful of rolls, and it was speedily brought to a close by the three plunges of the knife. which on the following day led to the victim's death. When questioned as to the cause, immediately after the murder, the assassin refused to farnish any explanation, and only replied to THE Commodious GODOWNS, Business the Father Superior and the other monks in | PREMISES and RESIDENCE, formerthese words, "The job is done; you may now ly occupied by Measts, MELCHERS & Co. take off my gown, and I'll make my way to situated at the junction of Graham and Welthe Garibaldians or the brigands." How. lington Streets, ever, neither the Garibaldians nor the brigands were to be honoured by this addition taken in March next. Apply to to their ranks, because the monks kept firm hold of Luigi Santini until the arrival of the Carbineers, to whom they at once banded him over. The trial presented many points both of social and legal interest. Apart from the 22nd of September. The Royal troops had can be had on let April next. only occupied Bome two days before, and the Royal decrees assimilating the legal condition of the Papal State to that of the rest of Italy were not promulgated, and, consequently, could not have legal force for some time later. The crime was so clearly proved by the testimony of the other monks placed in the witness-box, that no doubt could for a moment exist as to the character of the verdict. But the counsel for the prisoner demanded from the Court at mitigation of the penalty in the terms of the Papal law in force when the crime was committed, by which law, monks when sentenced for, murder were entitled to claim a mitigated form. of punishment as compared with that inflict-hard labour. All the extenuating pleas put forward respecting the deed itself completely broke down. It was proved that the murdered man had not, as was pretended, flung one of the rolls in the face of the murderer. No conclusive proof was furnished of another plea advanced in justification of the murder of one monk by his Godly brother-that the two were rivals in love. A third plea, that the murderer committed the crime when intoxicated, was dismissed on the concurrent testimony of his ghostly brethren that he was only "bilarious."

-News of the World. Ticket-of-leave Women. In a publication called The Bible and the Prisoner (the monthly report of the Mission to Women discharged from Prison) we rend :- M. A. P., a female licence-holder, was received by us from the convict prisons; and after a short probation, through which she did not pass favourably, she insisted on seeking domestic service for herself. Employers abound. M. A P soon found one. Her history stated cloud is 1.245, it contains 82.07 per cent. of fully did not deter a lady, filled with that human pity which is little short of folly, from best English North Country Coal for steaming making her an inmate of her dwelling. In a and all other purposes. week, M. A. P. - had left her place, and was again an applicant at the Washhouse for work. She had given the lady a sore time of it, drank. destroyed, and stole property. Pity of the usual sort prevented the lady from resorting to legal redress. We declined to readmit M. A. P Then began scenes of a most trying Fiercely drunk she assuited the wash | nent, Glasgow, and Messra. David Corsar & Sons house frequently. The police took her up re- Arbroath. peatedly, but the magistrates as often discharged her; she returned to the attack on our pity. Sober and drunk, we had her daily to encounter as a suppliant for aid. She tried every art to reach a weak part in our plan, and so get admission against our rule. We received. letters from courts where her case had been tried unsuccessfully, appealing to us to receive her on the ground that the magistrate did not know what else to do with her. Debauchery and rioting could have been proved against her, beside the direct crime of theft, but the charges somehow always missed fire; and, after "remande," and "detentions," sue had several liberations, on which occasions she returned to our door, with her unfailing applications for our help. By a short commitment to prison for fighting, she qualified for re-sutrance on our-books, and accordingly we took up M. A. P-'s case once more. All tears, repentance, gratitude, promises, and compliments, her words were plentiful on the subject of her sufferings and her good intentions. Twenty-four bours after their ebullition she was again found horribly drank, and as disorderly and namanageable as ever. Dismissal from our premises was an easy riddance for us, but the unhappy metropolitisnidis. RIAGES, for Sale. Also. trict into which she was projected cannot so readily dislodge her from its area. She has a " ticket of leave" to be "at her liberty," and "at her liberty" the magistrates decree she shall be, in spite of the conditions of her licence, which she violates with impunity. Its revocation would be perfectly legal. She has incurred its withdrawal, but the courage to do so is lacking in "the power" ordained to be a terror to evildoers. "The power" coerced by pity does not use its executive. It retreats at the instance of popular feeling, and M. A. P-, instead of swelling the number of reconvictions, remains in the "criminal class at large;" less discreditable as an item to one of the departments of our State, but immensely more expensive and troublesome to another. But this case does not exhaust all the anomalies of our criminal jurisprudence; we extract one more from our nemoranda. E. O - came to us one day under the ercort of a poline constable. She was also a licence-holder, and had had all the privileges of her order. She had been liberated from a Government refuge, and had come to service with a good wardrobe, money in her pucket, health, and skill in the ordinary work of household, to which, through the kindness o the managers of the refuge, the had been sent. A few days had sufficed to dissipate all her advantages.
